Woman accuses Swamiji of sexual harassment

Mysuru, Sept.8 (RK&BCT)- A woman from city has filed a Police complaint accusing Sri Vidyahamsa Bharathi Swamiji of sexual harassment, kidnap and assault. An FIR (Number 0135/2018) has been registered on Sept.7 at Kuvempunagar Police Station. The woman has also accused her husband of encouraging the Seer to sexually exploit her.

Sri Vidyahamsa Bharathi Swamiji of Thridhama Kshetra at Pandavapura is in city for Chaturmasya Vratha that will conclude on Sept.24 at Srirama Mandira in Krishnamurthypuram. Every day, he holds spiritual sessions for hundreds of devotees at Srirama Mandira. He has a huge fan following as devotees believe that the Seer has powers to solve all their financial and family problems.

In her complaint (a copy of which is with Star of Mysore), the woman, a resident of Ramakrishnanagar (coming under Kuvempunagar Police limits), has stated that her husband had forced her to go to the Seer and seek his blessings. Based on the complaint given by the woman, the Police have named her husband as Accused Number 1 and Vidyahamsa Bharathi Swamiji as Accused Number 2.

The woman has stated in her complaint that she married her husband 15 years ago and he had asked her to meet the Seer at Srirama Mandira. "My husband told me that he knew Vidyahamsa Bharathi Swamiji well and if I listen to him, all our problems including huge loans, will be solved. I refused to meet the Seer. On Sept. 4 at 1 am, the Swamiji rang the door bell of my house and I opened it thinking that it was my husband," the woman has stated.

Model micro-financing

We are in the era of the country's youth making a bold entry into the world of business. They have given a fancied name to their initiative. People who read reports in the land's dailies, even irregularly, cannot hide their wonder listening from the avid readers about the goings on virtually sans any flare or noise. The surprise element is that the players of the unprecedented action are, in a certain sense, the boys from our own backyards, armed with degrees in engineering, management, commerce and even humanities. For the starters, the action which is picking up has come to be known as Start-Ups, which has erupted in every sense of the term. The boys, sounding like seasoned successful business fraternity, seem to abhor publicity and prefer to respond to questions about their business in mono-syllables. Mysuru too is playing host to Start-Ups of a different class, the other feature of action in the city being the players are also providers of tasty dishes at prices hard to believe these days. We are talking of city's roadside eateries and also small-time darshanis.

The stories of men who have been bestowed adulation in glorious terms for building their respective business empires barely reveal the hard times of their journey to success. Money has played its viscious role in making or marring their success story, based on which all theories of managing capital have been written. But, theory and practice of dealing with cash in business are as different as chalk and cheese.

Karnataka's distinguished citizen of a distant past, answering to the name of Sarvajna (one who knows all that needs to be known) is credited with the famous verse with the message that taking a loan is like savouring a delicious dish but it is a different story when confronting the creditor. His philosophical portrayal of getting indebted has just been dashed, given the massive farm loan waiver leaving the lending banks in dire straits. People other than the farming fraternity must be regretting that they didn't get into agriculture. The case of Mysuru's small-time traders, who are peddling articles of daily need door-to-door, particularly fruits and vegetables, doesn't need to be elaborated, except their plight of being in the clutches of money-lenders.

The State Government has reportedly mooted a new scheme of giving a day loan for street vendors who are taking small amounts of working capital from private money-lenders to earn livelihood on a daily basis. If the scheme doesn't suffer at the hands of the staff in charge, it shall go down as a model in micro-financing.

MASS FAILURE: The Goa government is in a tizzy after over 8,000 candidates who had appeared for an examination conducted for the post of Accountants in the State government failed the test. None of the candidates, all graduates, were able to secure a minimum of 50 marks required to qualify in the 100-mark paper. The Directorate of Accounts had advertised 80 posts for Accountants in the common account cadre last October. The five-hour examination included a paper on English, General Knowledge and Accounts-related questions. Successful candidates were supposed to go through a round of interview before the final selection. Aam Aadmi Party's Goa General Secretary Pradeep Padgaonkar criticised the episode as a sad commentary on the "collapse" of the State's education system.

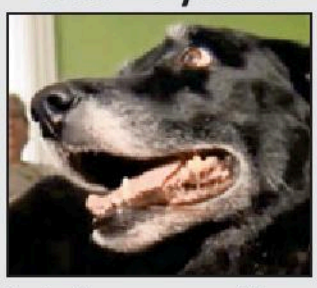
Home turned into sanctuary for cats

New York: A 58-year-old retired train conductor in Medford, New York, has turned his home into a sanctuary for cats. In 2006, about two months after Arsenault, the train conductor lost his son Eric, 24, in a motorcycle accident, he found a colony of young cats by some train tracks, in Long Island. There were over two dozen kittens, and Chris knew just by looking at them that if he left them there they would die. So he took them all home, doctored them back to health, fed them and gave them a home. They in turn helped the mourning father deal with the pain of losing his son.

In the following years, Arsenault adopted more cats and expanded his shelter to accommodate over 300 cats. Apart from an 8-by-12-foot bedroom where he sleeps and eats, the animal lover has given up all of his home and yard to the cats, and spends most of his time filling bowls with food and water, cleaning up the place and making sure the cats are happy and healthy.

Dead dog returns after 10 years!



Apollo: Ten years ago, Abby, a year-old black lab, which was playing with her human family outside of their Apollo, Pennsylvania home wandered off, her owner, Debra Suierveld, spent weeks searching for the pup, but eventually gave up, assuming that the dog had been killed. Life went on for Debra and her family, until they got an unexpected blast from the past.

Suierveld received a phone call from Animal Protectors of Allegheny Valley who claimed to have their dog. But when they mentioned the name of the dog as 'Abby', the woman didn't know what to answer. Suierveld picked Abby up from Animal Protectors in New Kensington and brought her back to the same house that she had disappeared.

Abby was found on the porch of Judy Spiering, on Wildlife Lodge Road in Lower Burrell, about 8 miles away from the Suierveld residence.

VOICE OF THE READER

All in the Family: 'Family Reservation'

Sir,

Apropos the news item titled 'All In The...Family' (Star of Mysore dated Sept.4), I would like to express that this can only happen in countries like India. Of course, we know that most of the autocratic countries have dynastic rulers. Even in USA, famous families like Kennedy, Bush, Clinton etc., have followed family-based power politics. This is very unfortunate.

This can also be called as 'Family Reservation' for powerful families !

The Election Commission makes reservation policies to different Constituencies in order to provide social justice and empowerment of weaker sections. But the powerful political families misuse the policies and field their own family members to retain the power within themselves.

This leads to neutralising the intentions of the Government and the Election Commission. The root cause for this problem lies in the political parties which give tickets to winnable candidates only! I wonder why our people support such family-based candidates! The main reasons could be caste, money power etc.

People like me can only hope that our people and the political parties change their attitude and stop supporting family-based politics in the interest of justice and equity.

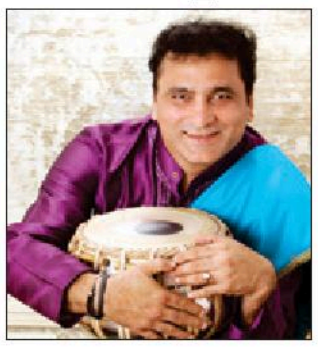
Sitar Recital on Sept.9

Mohasin Khan



Rajendra Nakod

Mohasin Khan from Dharwad will present a Sitar Recital under the auspices of Pandit Taranath Foundation on Sept.9 at M.L Krishnaswami's residence 'MEENAKSHI', #12/A, First Main Road, 4th Stage, T.K Layout, near Kamakshi Hospital, at 10.15 am.

Mohasin Khan, a prodigious talent, is one of the finest musicians of our country. He is the 7th generation sitarist in the illustrious family of the Indore Beenkar Gharana. He was initiated into the art of playing Sitar by his grandfather, late Ustad Abdul Karim Khan. He later continued his lessons from his father Ustad Hameed Khan.

Mohasin Khan has a rare privilege of becoming an 'A' Grade artist of Akashvani and Doordarshan, at the age of 21. He has also featured in National programme of Music. He has performed in major cities like Hampi, Mumbai, Hyderabad, Nagpur and Bengaluru. He has enthralled audiences at prestigious festivals in Germany, Italy, Japan, South Korea, France, Croatia, Netherlands, Nepal and Russia.

Mohasin is a gold medallist in B.Music and has obtained his M.A in Music from Dharwad University. He has won many awards to his credit. At present he is teaching in Kalkeri Sangeet Vidyalaya, Dharwad and also is a guest faculty in Karnatak University.

Mohasin will be accompanied on tabla by Rajendra Nakod, one of the most sought after tabla players in Karnataka. He has accompanied leading artistes like Pandit Rajeev Taranath, Pandit Venkatesh Kumar, Kadri Gopinath, Pravin Godkhindi, Sangeetha Katti, Rajendra Prasanna to name a few.

The entry for the concert is free for music-lovers, according to a press release from the Managing Trustee Pandit Rajeev Taranath. For more information contact: G.P Basavaraj on Mob: 9480057580.

Volunteers lend a helping hand to displaced animals in Kodagu

K. Rohan Appaiah and Dr. Meghana from People For Animals along with Ashraf and his wife who have lent their farm to shelter the rescued cows.

Kushalnagar, Sept. 8 (AG& BCT)- The calamitous monsoon in Kodagu has left thousands of families without shelter and hundreds of animals displaced. While the Kodagu District Administration and volunteers from social organisations are doing every bit to ensure that the families are rehabilitated, a group of animal NGOs are trying their best to treat and comfort the animals who have been abandoned.

Apart from sheltering and providing food to pets and livestock, they are providing medical assistance to affected animals. A base camp has been set up at Bylakuppe and animals are housed there. Volunteers say that they will continue their service till the last animal is either adopted or taken back by their owners.

Teams from Compassion Unlimited for Plus Action (CUPA), People For Animals (PFA), Humane Society International (HSI) and a few other volunteers are working day in and day out to rescue and comfort the animals.

The volunteers started their rescue mission from Aug. 18 from flood-hit areas of Makkandur, Mukkodlu, Madapura and Hattihole. So far, over 20 cows and over 37 dogs of different breeds (most of them country canines) have been sheltered. Volunteers are still searching for pets and livestock that might have been abandoned.

While the cows have been sheltered at Bota Farm in Koppa near Kushalnagar, dogs have been put up near the Tibetan Settlement at Bylakuppe. Ashraf, who owns Bota Farm, has given space in his property and the livestock is being fed and taken care of.

Another volunteer from HSI, Shilpa, a native of Kodagu and a resident of Singapore, is taking care of the cows along with three helpers. Nutritious grass grown at the farm and cow feed is given to the livestock regularly. While one cow is pregnant, a couple of them provide milk.

"We sell milk and are collecting money. Once the owner comes to take back the cows, we will hand over the money too," said a worker at Bota Farm. A team of Information Technology professionals from Bengaluru have donated money and medicines to the animal volunteers.

CUPA team has set up Dog Relief Centre at a three-building campus near the Tibetan Settlement. Kaliyanda Rohan Appaiah, a CUPA volunteer, who takes care of the unit told Star of Mysore that dogs, though disoriented as they have lost touch with their owners, were doing well at the rescue centre. Most of the dog breeds here are mixed and not pure-bred.

"Now the dogs are reciprocating to our words and they have been familiarised with other dogs. There is no need to leash them and most of them are roaming freely here. Some dogs needed fluid drips as they were hungry and exhausted. They are recuperating," he said and added that Dr. Amulya from World Veterinarian Association and Dr. Meghana from PFA have been treating the dogs.

Cages to house the dogs have been provided by HSI and other animal welfare organisations.

All the dogs are open for adoption except for the ones that have owners. "Many owners have contacted us and have told that they will return soon once the rehabilitation process is complete. They have identified their dogs and we are waiting for them to be taken back home," Rohan added.

The Dog Relief Centre set up by CUPA (Compassion Unlimited for Plus Action CUPA) team in Bylakuppe.

All the owners taking back their pets and livestock is a distant possibility as the owners themselves have taken shelter at rescue centres while the administration is set to build temporary sheds. "As of now we are not in a position to take back our pets as we are living in relief centres and home stays. Even if the government builds temporary houses, we may not be able to take the pets and livestock as it requires more space to take care of an animal," says Medappa, who owns two dogs. His house in Makkandur was washed away on Aug. 17.

Rohan said that four dogs including two Pomeranians have already been adopted and they will be sent to Bengaluru and Mysuru where the adopted owners stay. Interested people who want to adopt dogs can contact Mob: 97401-09944.

CM insists on Mayor post for JD(S)

Bengaluru, Sept.8 (KMS& DM)- Even as the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) has thrown up a hung verdict, with no party getting an absolute majority in the 65-member civic body, Chief Minister (CM) H.D. Kumaraswamy is said to be holding parleys with the Congress on JD(S) retaining the Mayor post.

In the previous Council, the JD(S), which aligned with BJP, held the Mayor post for 5 years leaving the Deputy Mayor to BJP.

The election to 105 Urban Local Bodies (ULB) including three City Corporations — Mysuru, Tumakuru and Shivamogga — on Aug.31, threw up a hung verdict in over 30 ULBs and 2 City Corporations of Mysuru and Tumakuru. Soon as the results of the ULB polls were declared on Sept.3, the CM held talks with State Congress in-charge K.C. Vengopal, KPCC President Dinesh Gundu Rao and other Senior Congress leaders, on entering into an alliance in order to gain control of ULBs which have thrown up a hung verdict.

Continuing his efforts on gaining control of ULBs wherever possible, Kumaraswamy is said to have held exclusive talks with Deputy Chief Minister Dr. G. Parameshwara, after the Cabinet meeting on Thursday night. During the talks, Kumaraswamy, reminding Dr. Parameshwara that the JD(S) has been supporting the Congress in BBMP, insisted on Mayor post for the JD(S) in Mysuru and Tumakuru City Corporations.

The CM is said to have explained to the Dy.CM on JD(S) having a bigger number than the Congress in the MCC.

Kodagu man with gold worth Rs. 11 lakh held at Bengaluru Airport

Bengaluru, Sept. 8- Customs Department sleuths have seized gold worth Rs. 11.57 lakh from a Kodagu resident who arrived from Bahrain at the Kempegowda International Airport Limited (KIAL) at Devanahalli in Bengaluru. The gold was hidden in his trousers.

The accused is 50-year-old Kottambadi Ahmed Latheef, a resident of Hodavada village in Kodagu. He was travelling from Bahrain to India and landed at KIAL on the morning of Sept. 6.

On checking by Customs officials, they found that Ahmed Latheef had cut gold into small pieces and had concealed them in the left side pocket of his trousers. He had wrapped the gold in silver-coloured foils and had concealed in the trouser pockets to avoid detection.

All aircraft and passengers are searched by the officers of the Airport Customs to look for possible concealment of gold, contrabands and other substances.

Ahmed Latheef had come to Bengaluru in Gulf Airlines. He has been arrested now and investigations are on.

Free health camp to mark Prasad's 71st birthday tomorrow

Mysuru, Sept.8 (RKB&US)- Marking the 71st birthday of State BJP Vice-President V. Sreenivasa Prasad, a free health check-up camp has been organised near SRS Hootagalli (opposite new KEB Office) here tomorrow (Sept.9) at 9 am.

Sreenivasa Prasad

Camp Convenor Avinash said that Sreenivasa Prasad will also inaugurate Apollo Diagnostic Centre and Swasthya Health Care Centre at 10 am. District In-charge Minister G.T. Devegowda will preside. MP Pratap Simha, MLA S.A. Ramdas and others will be present.

One more arrested in auto driver murder case

Mysuru, Sept.8- The Udayagiri Police have arrested one more person in connection with the murder of auto driver Aslam Pasha. The arrested has been identified as Samiullah (25), a resident of Gandhinagar in the city.

Auto driver Aslam Pasha was hacked to death by one Syed Irfan over a family dispute on July 21. While the prime accused Syed Irfan was arrested the same day, Samiullah, who was facing charges of helping Syed Irfan in the assault, had gone absconding. However, Udayagiri Police succeeded in tracing Samiullah one-and-a-half-month after the crime and arrested him.

Accident victim dies

Mysuru, Sept.8 (SBD&US)- Jagadish (55) of Devaraja Mohalla, who allegedly fell off a scooter he was riding on Aug. 22 near Hootagalli Government School and admitted to K.R. Hospital for head injuries, passed away on Thursday. VV Puram Traffic Police have registered the case.

An exclusive interview with Ace TV Show host Karan Thapar

"I was lucky I had a wife who liked the adult and child in me"–2

If Obama thinks he has a right to ask for questions, I have a right to give him questions I won't ask

By N. Niranjan Nikam

Star of Mysore (SOM): As interviewers we never like to share questions in advance. But you have said talking about US President Barack Obama how he wanted them in advance. However, you have also mentioned how questions can be fobbed off. How many times have you in other words cheated once you have sent questions but asked different ones?

Karan Thapar: Oh many, many times. People ask for questions and make a condition that if you don't give questions, they won't give the interview. So I write out the questions, some of those are so obvious that any fool would realise this has to come up. So I am not doing him any great service by letting him know that I am going to ask this question because if he has half a bit of intelligence, he knows that this question has to be asked. And the other two questions I just make out as I know I am not going to ask them but as I need to fill out a page I do it. If he thinks he has a right to ask for questions, I have a right to give him questions I won't ask.

I will give him completely false questions, easy, little silly questions because I don't think politicians are justified in saying they want questions. But if they insist and they won't give you an interview, then fine, take the risk of taking questions that you won't be asking. What are you going to do? Are you going to say to me that you are bringing up questions that you never mentioned? This is not the set of questions you gave.

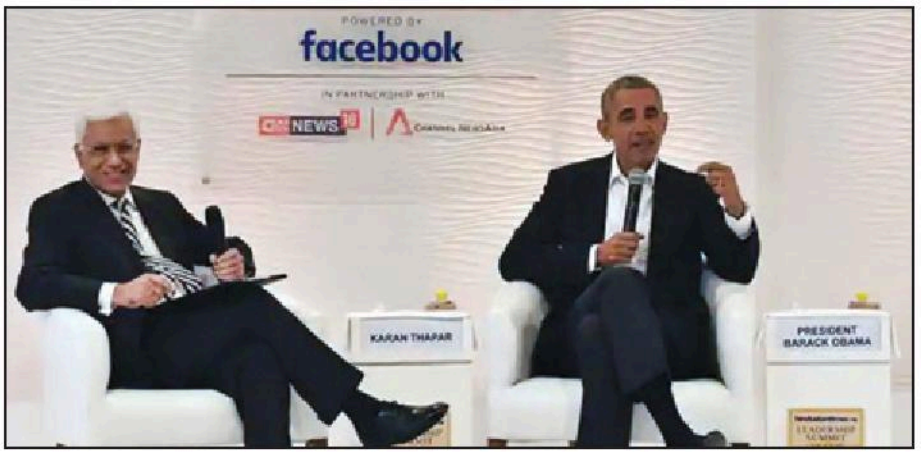
SOM: So you have that approach?

Karan Thapar: Absolutely and I think you should because I don't think politicians have the right to ask for questions.

SOM: It is very interesting how you interpret your own tough line of questioning interviews in 'Sunday Sentiments' column "Is interview a game?" According to you, is it still a game though you have come to some conclusion about cops and robbers?

Karan Thapar: See there is no doubt there is an element of game playing in all interviews. Now, your job as a journalist is not only to ask difficult questions but to try to catch out the person with his answers. That is, either by exposing something or by revealing what he doesn't truly understand or by bringing to his attention of problems that he hasn't thought up in whatever way. You are out in quotation marks to expose him.

He is out to try and win the audience, to impress, to convince the audience that he knows the answers to the problems. So there is a sense of not just divergence but an inherent conflict in the situation. And that is what I call the element in play is scoring points of each other, and that is much more obvious in television interviews than in print.



Karan Thapar with Barack Obama in 2017

SOM: But what was the experience with Obama like, though you have shared it in the book?

Karan Thapar: I think he is a very impressive person to meet in the sense that he is likeable, friendly and very chatty; there is no stiffness in the man. However, what put me off is that not only did he want to know the questions in advance but he was also willing to strike out questions which he did not want to be asked which left me with no choice but to bring back three of those questions.

SOM: Now, coming to the many revelations you have made in the book, it breaks the cardinal principle 'never reveal your source.' But you have done it time and again, so much so that even Diplomat-Politician Pavan Kumar Varma remarked about your disclosure about Modi in our newspaper [Refer Pavan Varma interview in SOM dated Aug. 21 and 22]. Please comment.

Karan Thapar: I will tell you the truth. First of all what Pavan said to me, it was not said in confidence. Every conversation you have with someone is not a confidential conversation. It may be private because there are no other people in the room but it doesn't mean to say it is confidential. When people want you to hold something in confidence, they explicitly say so. In no way did Pavan indicate to me by word or by gesture that this was confidential.

Secondly, at that particular period of time when Pavan told me this about Mr. Modi and about Prashant Kishor there were many other things he told me when he explicitly, deliberately and repeatedly said this is confidential. But he didn't say about this at all.

Thirdly, this concerns me in a very intrinsic, intricate way. This is me that he is talking about, clearly he intended for me to make use of it as I want.

If you see the interview he gave Jyoti Malhotra in The Print, he makes it very clear, first of all that he is not disputing what Karan said, elsewhere he has claimed Karan is lying but to Jyoti Malhotra he makes it clear, very clear that 'I am not disputing what Karan said, I am simply concerned why didn't he clear it with me before he went and wrote about it.'

SOM: That is what he told me in his interview with 'Star of Mysore.'

Karan Thapar: I will tell you. It is a very simple answer. What Pavan was doing was being indiscreet. It was quite clear he was being indiscreet in repeating something to me. If I had gone to him and said Pavan I want to go public with you on this question I will be putting him in an awkward position. Either he has to say no please don't go public, cover up for my indiscretion or he has to admit that he was indiscreet and publicly reveal he was indiscreet. Either way I am pushing him into an embarrassing position, which would be not right, because he is a friend and he remains a good friend.

After the launch in Delhi on 25th of July, in fact, he had dinner with me on 29th of July. He is a good friend and we both joked about it. He said Karan is making up this story and I said to people, Pavan is having a senior moment.

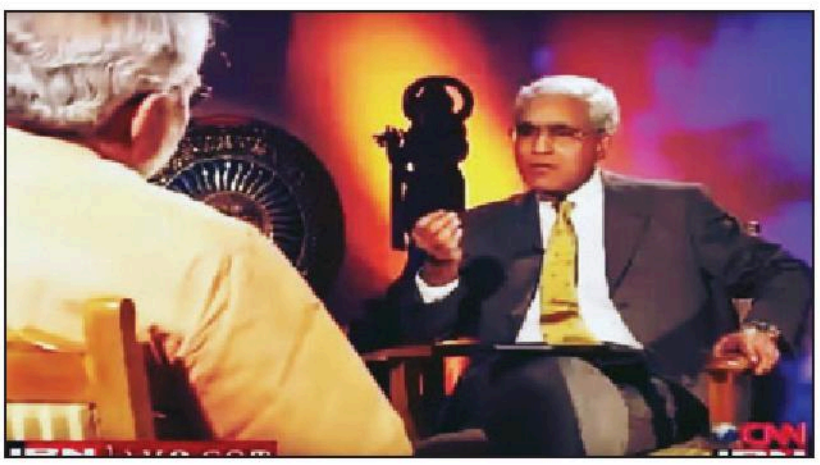
SOM: As a result you have made enemies and drawn the wrath of leaders like Advani, Ram Jethmalani, late Jayalalithaa and the list goes on. But the worst is the present PM Narendra Modi himself and the BJP whom you have completely antagonised. Do you regret at all for your stubbornness, idealism or lack of smartness. Is it worth all this when you have almost become a pariah?

Karan Thapar: Well, I don't regret it at all, not one little bit. If I had a chance to do the same thing all over again I am sure I would do it. Have I become a pariah? I think for the BJP today I am a pariah. But if the BJP were to falter and not win power in 2019 or if a weak BJP government comes, then things will change. BJP is aware of it and I am aware of it. These things change.

There were loads of Congress Ministers who were very arrogant when they were Ministers. I don't want to name them and I don't think it is necessary. The moment they lost power, they became very different, and they began knocking on your doors instead. Suddenly they want to be interviewed, they want the attention of the Press, and they miss it. So people change when they are not in power and all of a sudden when the BJP ceases to be in power, their attitude to Karan will also change.

Anyway there is one BJP Minister and you can happily mention this because he has begun giving interviews as of two weeks ago and that is Nitin Gadkari. Nitin also has problems with the Prime Minister. Nitin gave me a one-hour interview for The Quint and he again appeared at great length on a discussion that I anchored which is for Abhishek Singhvi's book launch. So Nitin Gadkari is already one Minister who is breaking the BJP boycott of Karan and I am sure, in due course, more and more Ministers will join him.

[To be concluded tomorrow]



Interviewing Narendra Modi.

Crafts Bazaar beckons visitors

Clay and terracotta Ganesha idols in great demand

Mysuru, Sept.8 - There is less than a week to go for Ganesha Chaturthi celebrations, and in an indication of growing concern among citizens for the environment, business at stalls set up at the JSS Mysore Urban Haat selling eco-friendly idols of the elephant-headed God appeared to be brisk.

The ban on Plaster of Paris (PoP) idols, coupled with a slew of initiatives undertaken by the government highlighting the benefits of eco-friendly idols, appears to be yielding desirable results. Besides idols made of clay, the other substance that customers appeared to prefer was terracotta.

Mandya terracotta artisan Nagaraju, participating in the ongoing Crafts Bazaar organised by the Union Ministry of Textiles in association with JSS Urban Haat, said that he had registered very good business at the event.

"The demand for terracotta idols has steadily increased over the past few years, following the ban on PoP idols. Now people are switching to clay and terracotta idols," Nagaraju said.

Explaining the artistic and sustainable benefits of terracotta, Nagaraju said, "Terracotta is a clay-based product, which has been a major ingredient in sculptures since ancient times. Terracotta is manufactured by inserting clay into a mould in a specific shape, and then burning it, which results in the clay attaining the shape of the structure."

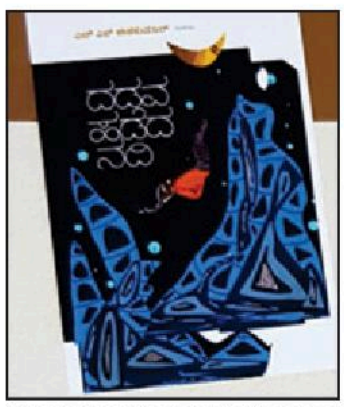
Delighted with the demand for terracotta idols, he added, "The price of these idols ranges from Rs. 80 to Rs. 400, based on size and design. Some of the smallest idols are just two inches in height."

In keeping with the spirit of the season, T. Sekar, a deaf textile artisan, and his sister Pushparani, have managed to bring Ganesha to life in various shapes, and positions, on the saris that the duo has designed.

Meanwhile, Nanda Dole quit her job at a Co-operative Bank when she was due to deliver her second child, but was reluctant to return to her job in the financial world. Once she learnt how to work magic with 'waste' substances on fabric, besides bringing out intricately wrought jewellery, she has managed to design necklaces, earrings and other ornamental jewellery.

Modern Aplic, designed by Suresh Kumar Patnaik, was also a big draw at the Crafts Bazaar. The expo-cum-sale will be open from 10 am to 9 pm till Sept. 9, according to M. Shivananjaswamy, Project Officer, JSS Mysore Urban Haat, Ring Road, Hebbal Industrial Area, Mysuru.

Book release tomorrow



Mysuru, Sept.8(RSB)- Noted Columnist Chandrashekar Alur will release the book 'Dadava Hadeda Nadhi,' a collection of poems by H.N. Eshakumar at a programme organised by Kuvempu Institute of Kannada Studies (KIKS) at its B.M. Shree Auditorium, KIKS premises, Manasagangothri, at 11 am tomorrow (Sept.9).

Folk Scholar Dr. Chakkare Shivashankar and Desi Pustaka Publisher Srushti Nagesh will be the chief guests. Poet Mallikarjunagowda Tholahalli will speak on the book. KIKS Director Prof. Nilagiri M. Talawar will preside.

Cultural contests for senior citizens

IN BLACK & WHITE

Vikram Muthanna

Finally, they can say they are Gay

When political parties know what is right, but cannot do it, they have a magic mantra they chant which is, "We leave it to the wisdom of the courts." And thank God our Supreme Court has wise Heads because finally the Apex Court has decriminalised homosexuality.

It is not only an important judgement for the Gay community, but also for our Nation as it puts us on the path to develop a progressive mindset and reminds us that in a modern day Democracy, Constitution sets the tone, not a loud majority view.

And majority of the people view homosexuality as unnatural. They wonder how can a woman sexually desire another woman and not a man? Or how can a man have romantic feelings for another man instead of a woman? This seems unnatural to most of us heterosexuals because we are in majority and the majority decides what is "natural" and not nature. That is why the Supreme Court while striking down a part of Section 377 said, "Majoritarian views and popular morality cannot dictate Constitutional Rights."

Thankfully this time the Supreme Court Bench was wiser than the one in 2013. Because in 2013 the Bench of Justices G.S. Singhvi and S. J. Mukhopadhaya reversed the Delhi HC's 2009 verdict that decriminalised Section 377. These two Judges will forever be remembered for endangering the lives of homosexuals because after the 2009 verdict many Gays came out openly and started living together. By over-turning the judgement after four years to please a coalition of religions, these Judges turned the openly Gay citizens into sitting ducks for extortionists.

The truth is, India was never prudish about sex. Hell, we built a temple for sex — Khajuraho. We have a book on sexual positions — Kamasutra. We had a genre of poetry Rekhti, that describes erotic encounters between women. Our male Gods transform into women and procreate. Our dance forms can be erotic. Our art is rich in sexuality. Our sculptures are full of bosomed women and bare-chested men. We were a very sexual race. A very liberal race.

So when did we become this prudish people that sees sex and skin as something dirty that we have to hide and enjoy? Yes, it's a British Colonial vestige. It's ironic that today the British are liberal sexually and intellectually while we have become narrow-minded religious fanatics! They are what we were centuries ago, and we are what they were centuries ago. Ah, how the tables have turned.

That said Indians are not really homophobic in the sense of the Westerners. In India, you will find men holding hands very often. And people don't give a second look unlike in the West. This same sex "friendship" has helped many same sex couples in India avoid the wary conservative eye. And when I was young I used to think they were lucky.

I had two Gay friends in college in Mysore who were a couple. We had an understanding; they could borrow my bike and I could use their room. I was jealous of these guys, because they would hug each other romantically as they rode to scenic spots, they had a big room in Gokulam where they enjoyed cooking and mating, they even held hands in public. Nothing evoked public outrage. Whereas I was a heterosexual man and I could not take my girl friend on my bike holding me tightly lest someone sees. I had to sneak her to the room as the landlord would not approve of female companion in his abode, and there was no way I could hold her hand in public.

I felt gays had it easy. They could do all this and they would be seen as "best friends." I remember that landlord once reprimanding me saying, "Look at them they are good boys, studious and well-behaved. You are a dirty bugger and a bad influence on them." It was ironic that he called me a dirty bugger, when in fact the boys whom he was praising were the real dirty buggers, because the word bugger means sodomiser or a homosexual! In fact, Section 377 comes from the British Buggery Act of 1533.

Speaking of twists and turns in Gay lives, I had a Gay colleague when working in the US. A white middle-aged Texan man. One day he came to me and in a sly manner said, "Vik I've got myself a Brown Bomb, an Indian man. We have been chatting for three months and I'm planning to send him a ticket to visit me." Since I was from India, he wanted to know about logistics of travel and ticketing.

I then asked him if I could see a picture of this "brown bomb." He got excited, took me to his office and shyly clicked on JPEG file on his screen. And behold... the screen was filled with young bare and hair-chested Salman Khan! Posing with one hand behind his back and looking yearningly into nothing. More Salman photos popped up. I had to tell my Texan friend that this was a movie star in India and he was being baited for a free ticket.

But this kind of baiting takes a dangerous turn in India as blackmailers lure Gay men and then threaten to have them booked under Section 377 which is 10 years imprisonment. Now they cannot. In fact, a doctor in Bengaluru was blackmailed and when he filed a complaint the Police booked the blackmailers for extortion and then booked the victim, the doctor too, under Section 377!

Sometimes homosexuals themselves feel isolated. I knew a classmate in Mysuru who committed suicide as he felt he was 'abnormal.' He was popular among the girls but never had a girlfriend and was bullied. I remember when Karan Johar's movie Kabhi Khushi Kabhie Gham... came out, they would tease him saying *"for you it's Kabhi PuS*y Khabi Bum."* Before we knew, he had hung himself at a hotel in city.

The world is a complicated place, nature is complicated. The same God who gave us heterosexuals gave us homosexuals and transgenders. The same nature gave us Gay heroes and geniuses from Alexander the Great to Leonardo da Vinci. For all those who think homosexuals have a psychiatric problem, remember the biggest names in art and technology are homosexuals from Tim Cook CEO of Apple Computers to movie-maker Ismail Merchant. We have to learn to live and let live. That's what the Supreme Court has taught us.

Our famous Hindi Director Karan Johar in his memoir wrote, "Everybody knows what my sexual orientation is. I don't need to scream it out. If I need to spell it out, I won't only because I live in a country where I could possibly be jailed for saying this. Which is why, Karan Johar will not say the three words that possibly everybody knows about me."

Well, I guess now, like all homosexuals Karan Johar too can finally say those three words: I am ...

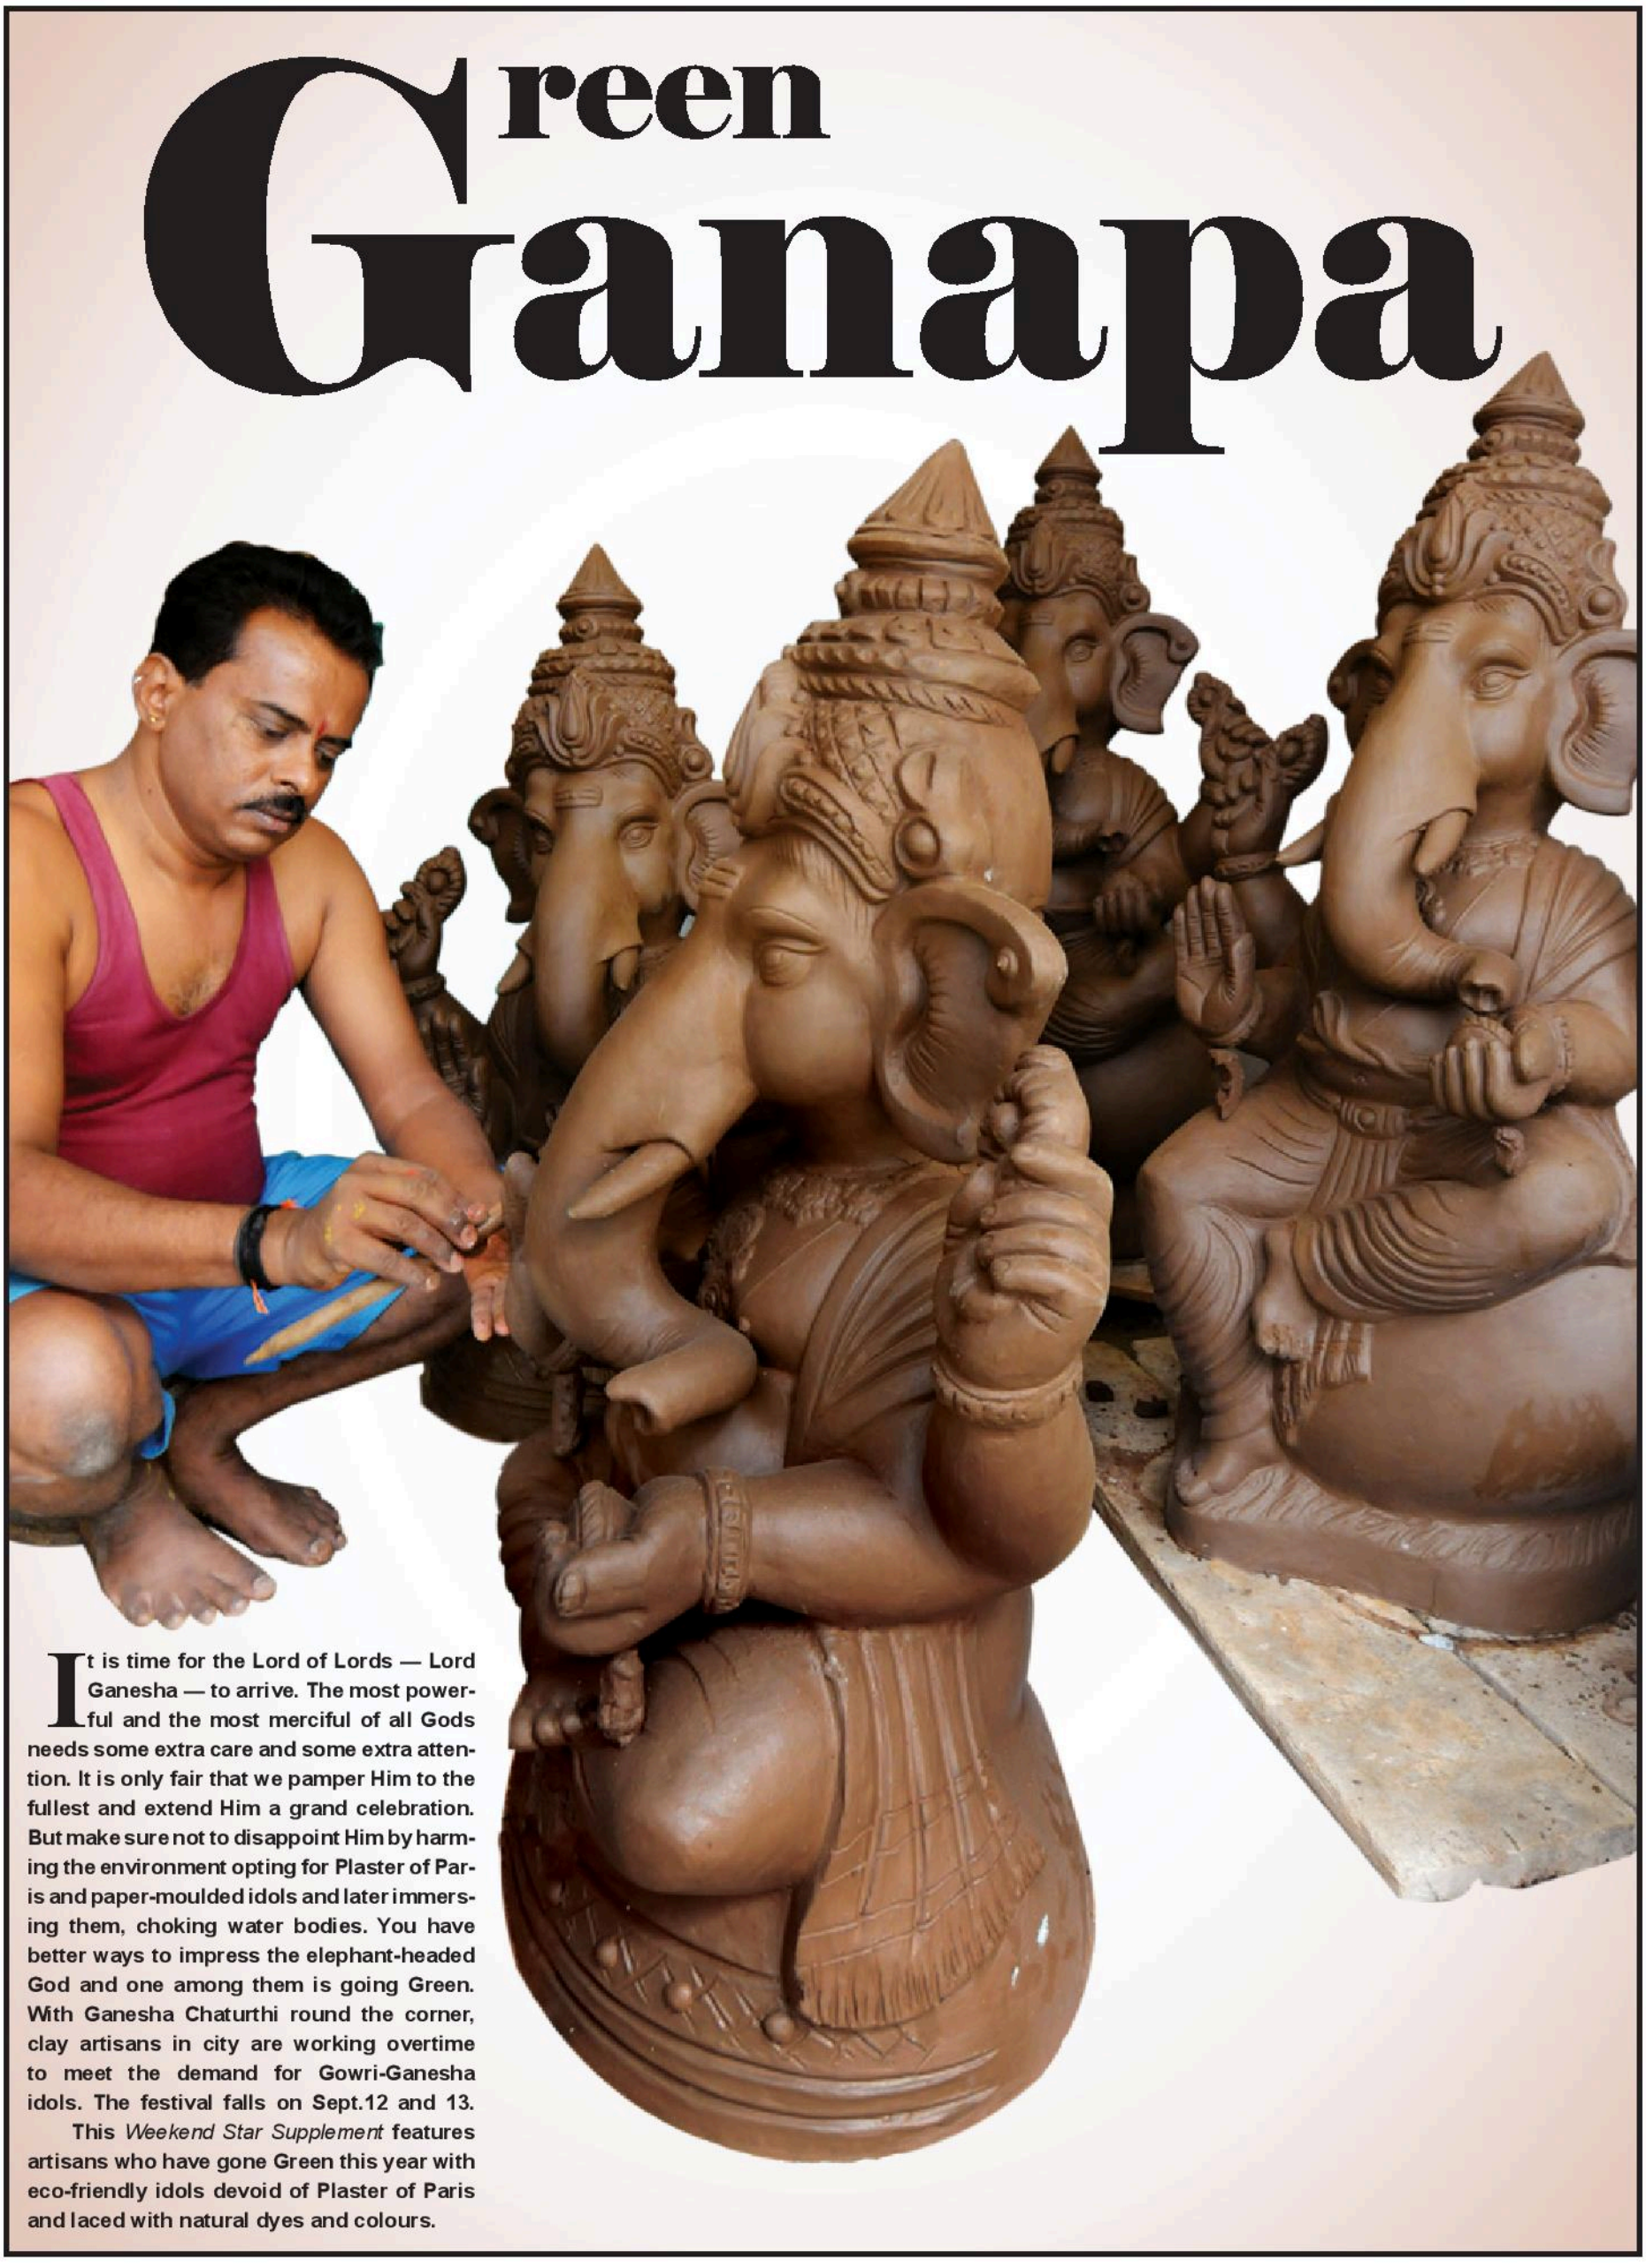
Green Ganapa



It is time for the Lord of Lords — Lord Ganesha — to arrive. The most powerful and the most merciful of all Gods needs some extra care and some extra attention. It is only fair that we pamper Him to the fullest and extend Him a grand celebration. But make sure not to disappoint Him by harming the environment opting for Plaster of Paris and paper-moulded idols and later immersing them, choking water bodies. You have better ways to impress the elephant-headed God and one among them is going Green. With Ganesha Chaturthi round the corner, clay artisans in city are working overtime to meet the demand for Gowri-Ganesha idols. The festival falls on Sept.12 and 13.

This Weekend Star Supplement features artisans who have gone Green this year with eco-friendly idols devoid of Plaster of Paris and laced with natural dyes and colours.

STAR OF MYSORE Saturday 8th September 2018 Weekend STAR Supplement Page-11

this Ganesha chaturthi...

Go the Eco-friendly way

Team Star of Mysore

Here's some encouraging news for nature lovers and environmentalists. After years, the Mysuru City Corporation has finally woken up to the need of checking unabated pollution of water bodies while immersing idols during Ganesha festival.

Despite a slow start, the trend of eco-friendly idols has started gaining acceptance after the initiative was launched last year and continued this year in a more elaborate manner. Even there is awareness and an encouraging response from devotees towards eco-friendly initiatives.

Ganesha Chaturthi also known as Vinayaka Chaturthi marks the birth of Lord Ganesha and is celebrated across India. Every year, people buy idols of Lord Ganesha and worship it during the festival as they believe that Ganesha will come down to their homes to bestow blessings, wisdom and prosperity.

The celebration culminates with immersion of idols. As most of the idols are made with Plaster of Paris (PoP) or paper-moulded idols, immersion causes harm to nature, marine life, ecosystem and the environment.

Lately, a few people — rather many — have realised the need to protect the environment and have moved to the age-old traditional practice of installing eco-friendly idols that are biodegradable. The MCC has issued a warning to idol-makers on not to use PoP.

With Ganesha Chaturthi and the essence of festivity round the corner, Mysuru city is all set for the grand celebrations. Star of Mysore interacted with a few idol-makers who are experts in making natural eco-friendly idols. Read on...

Men who make Gods

"Lord Ganesha is also the patron of art and artisans who make the idols, replicate the artistic touch and essence through their sculptures. Clay idol makers carve finer details such as the face curves, the eyes, the trunk, the calm posture, etc. and not just evoke a sense of devotion in the minds of worshippers and viewers but also evoke a sense of concern towards Mother Earth."

Raghavendra, an idol-maker in Vinayakanagar (Paduvarahalli) says, "Making Ganesha idols is an art. I have been making idols here since 15 years. My mother Premamma has been making Ganesha idols since her childhood. She started learning this art and now that art has been passed on to me. She used to make idols near the City Market those days. But now we make it here. We make the idols here and sell them near Olympia Talkies. We also take bookings and people come here and pay advance."

"We design the size and bring in our creativity according to customer requirements. We make idols of both Ganesha and Gowri. We use mould to design shapes. We use clay and put it in the moulds to get the desired shape. Making idols is not an easy process. It is time-consuming and involves a lot of labour," he explains.

"We have to get loads of clay, clean it and prepare required moulds using PoP. We prepare moulds like the head and the crown of Ganesha, the various body parts, trunk etc. We then fill the mould with clay mud and let it settle. After it settles, we bring in all the parts and assemble it as one single idol."

A small idol takes about 20 to 30 minutes to be prepared while the large ones take about 3 to 5 hours. "My mom is an inspiration. She is 78 years old, and even now she makes idols with enthusiasm. She works hard and has been a role model for us. We start making idols 3 to 4 months prior the festival. We sell idols till the arrival of festival and a few people buy the idols even after the festival," he explains.

Speaking about the eco-friendly aspect, he says, "We use only water paints to paint our idols. We don't use any harmful chemicals. Even the idols that we make easily dissolves in water and turns into mud. It will not cause any harm like that of the POP idols."

Is PoP banned or not? I'm still confused: Idol-maker Kumar

Idol-maker Kumar is seen amidst a mound of clay mud as he filters impurities.

Idol-maker Kumar, popularly known as Ganapathi Kumar, makes idols of Ganesha at his residence in Vinayakanagar in Paduvarahalli. He says, "Our family has been known to make idols of Lord Ganesha. It started from the time of our grandfathers. We used to do pottery those days. But with modernisation, and development of the city, we are unable to continue pottery as there are no spaces. Pottery making requires huge amount of space. With more number of houses coming up at places, we decided not to continue pottery."

"Personally, I have been making idols of Ganesha since my birth. Me and my family make the idols here and sell it also near the Sri Andal Mandir on Temple Road. We use clay for the idols. But one thing that is confuses me and probably the customers too. Is PoP really banned? I don't have an answer. Because over the years I have seen PoP idols being made and sold everywhere. Before PoP was in the market, our clay idols were in huge demand. Once PoP idols came, we lost much of our business. Because most of the customers buy PoP idols," he says.

"People buy PoP and highly-coated painted idols that can be hazardous to the environment. And I have heard this common statement from customers that PoP and coloured Ganesha idols is fine for us as we immerse the idol in our own buckets and not in any other water body. There should be a clear mention of rules and regulations on the ban and purchase of PoP idols. We, the traditional clay idol-makers are really confused," he explains.

Kumar who also conducts summer camps and classes at schools and various colleges and teaches them the art of pottery and making pots, vases and idols, says, "For a business period of 2 to 3 days, we have to work hard for about 4 to 5 months. We have to get clay, then filter and remove the impurities like stones,gravel, hay, grass etc. Then we have to soften the mud for several days by adding proper water and make it exactly like the Chapatti dough. The clay mud must turn into a smooth texture. Until then we have to keep working on it," he says.

After this, mud is put into moulds and the clay takes the shape of the mould. "We remove it, scrape the edges and unwanted mud. We then need to give finer touching to give finer details like the eyes, ears and face etc. The process is long. But PoP powder takes about 30 minutes to set and the idol is made within no time. But people do not realise the value of the traditional clay idols. And when idols are not sold, we have to save them until the next year and that requires space and care as even the rains can dissolve the idol. Our family members make the idols and my uncle Subramaniam also pitches in. During the off season, I drive an auto," he says.

Subramaniam, one of the family members of idol-maker Kumar, seen with the Ganesha mould.

Demand for clay Ganesha is slowly increasing

D. Revanna giving finishing touches to his Ganesha idols at Kumbarageri near Ashoka Road.

D. Revanna, a Ganesha idol-maker near Kumbarageri on Ashoka Road credits his father Dasappa for passing on the art of idol making to him. He says, "We have been making idols for over 40 years. It was my father Dasappa who taught me this art. I also attended CAVA (Chamarajendra Academy of Visual Arts) and studied sculpture and painting. We prepare idols of different sizes and we have several tools for giving it the exact finishing touch. Most customers are keen about specifications and thus we must be very specific when detailing the idol's appearance," he says.

"We have regular customers who have been ordering idols from us since over 20 years. It is a good sign that lately many people are showing interest towards clay Ganesha. And since the last couple of years, people want Ganesha even without any sort of paint. The demand for plain clay mud idols is slowly increasing as the word of safety of environment is spreading. My mother Lingamma also helps me in painting and designing idols. Creativity is the key and I try to bring in my experience to make innovative and creative idols," he explains.

Made-to-Order Ganeshas

Yeshwanth at his outlet near Panchamukhi Anjaneya Temple on Irwin Road.

At the Veeraanjaneya Temple on Irwin Road, priest Krishnamurthy has been making idols since 15 years and he does not consider this as a business. "I make the idols and keep them within the temple premises as there is a lot of space. Every year, I make over 50 to 60 idols that range from two feet to eight feet. I have buyers from Lashkar Mohalla, Mandi Mohalla and Paduvarahalli. I do this as there is tremendous pressure from the devotees as they have got used to my eco-friendly idols. I consider this as a service and not as a business and sell the idols with a small profit," he says. Krishnamurthy does not use PoP and uses clay and water colours that can easily dissolve in water.

Even at Hebbal Second Stage opposite State Bank, near the MUDA Market (Raitha Santhe), idols are sold anywhere between Rs. 4,000 to Rs. 10,000. Paramesh, an idol seller from Lokanayakanagar has been in the business since the last three years. He sells idols near the Annapoorneshwari Temple and only eco-friendly idols are sold.

On Ashoka Road First Cross, Kumbarageri Puttaswamy has been selling idols since the past 30 years. He makes colourful idols like Gandabherunda Ganapa, Ganesha with Mysore Peta. He says that the demand for the Lord on a lotus is great. Puttaswamy is nick-named Parisara Puttaswamy as he only makes eco-friendly idols.

Adjacent to Panchamukhi Anjaneya Swamy Temple on Irwin Road, one will only get green Ganapa. An exclusive stall "Sri Panchamukhi Jedimannina Gowri Ganesha Vigrahagalu" has come up where idols including miniature ones to large ones are sold. Paint is not prominent on these idols as they are used to the minimum extent. Even those paints are water colours and are made of natural colours.

"We have been selling these idols since the last 20 years and we open our stall at the same place every year. We procure these idols from Devanahalli and Dasarahalli in Bengaluru and from Kolar. Ours are made-to-order idols and we strictly deal with eco-friendly idols," says Yeshwanth the son of shop owner Nagesh.

"It is very easy to transport PoP idols as they don't break easily. But in the case of our idols, enough care must be taken on road and even a small road hump or a pothole can destroy an idol. For this, we wrap idols in hay and paddy husk," he adds. Idols here are available for as less as Rs. 100 and can go up to Rs. 12,000.

Single window system for installing idols: DC

Mysuru Deputy Commissioner Abhiram G. Sankar has directed officials to set up a single window system to cater to the request of general public and organisers of various associations who are installing Gowri-Ganesha idols in public places.

At a meeting to oversee preparations to check the sale of hazardous Plaster of Paris idols ahead of Gowri-Ganesha festival, he asked the officials to set up a single window system so that people can obtain pre-requisite permission from both city police and Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) authorities under one roof. Earlier, people had to visit two different offices at different locations to seek permission.

Stressing on the need of going green during the festival season, he said that idols made of Plaster of Paris and paper moulds and painted using different colours pose a threat to water bodies after the immersion. He said that a team will be formed to look into the complaints of selling such banned idols.

The MCC has been tasked with the job of building artificial ponds for immersion of idols. Also, mobile water tanks will be stationed at prominent locations for the benefit of public.

District and Sessions Judge S.K. Vantigodi, City Police Commissioner Dr. A. Subramanyeswara Rao, SP Amit Singh, DCP (Law and Order) N/ Vishnuvardhana, KARP Deputy Commandant Praveen Alva and others were present. On the occasion, Usharani, who is serving at Yeshwantpur Police Station in Bengaluru and who has won silver medal in an international Kabaddi event, was felicitated.

International workshop on 'Speech Processing' begins at AIISH

Prof. Rainer Martin, Ruhr University, Germany, inaugurating the two-day international workshop on 'Speech Processing' organised by All India Institute of Speech and Hearing (AIISH) in association with the International Speech Communication Association at AIISH seminar hall in city this morning as Prof. Kris Demuynck, Ghent University, Belgium, Prof. S.R.M. Prasanna , Prof. M. Pushpavathi, Prof. Ajish K. Abraham and Prof. N. Sreedevi look on.

Mysuru, Sept.8- A lot of issues which have been posing problem in the past, have been solved through technological revolution but still there is a lot of open research questions and main issues which need to be addressed, said Prof. Rainer Martin from Ruhr-University, Bochum, Germany.

He was speaking after inaugurating the two-day international workshop on 'Speech Processing' organised by All India Institute of Speech and Hearing (AIISH) in association with the International Speech Communication Association at AIISH seminar hall here this morning and said, "Due to technological revolution though many issues related to speech disorders have been solved, still there are lots of challenges and workshops like this will really help to address many existing issues and address new challenges."

Prof. Kris Demuynck, Ghent University, Belgium, who also spoke on the occasion, said: "I come from Belgium which consists of 10 million people while India has more than one billion people. Because of more population, India is land of opportunity and best place to take up research. The type of research possible here are exciting. For good research, more data and insights are very important, this is available in abundance in India. The more insights the more we can help people. These sorts of workshops will help share ideas and work together for innovations."

Later, Prof. Rainer Martin spoke on "Speech and Music Enhancement for Hearing Impaired Listeners" while Prof. Kris Demuynck spoke on "an e-health tool for training and evaluating pathological speakers.'

The paper presenters include researchers from Arizona State University, Idiap Research Institute, Switzerland, Ghent University, Belgium, Birzeit University, Palestine, Institute of Communication Acoustics, Bochum, Germany & University of Sheffield, UK. Researchers from prestigious institutes in the country such as IIT, Bombay, IIT, Guwahati, IIIT, Hyderabad & IIIT, and faculty from AIISH, Mysuru will also present their research work.

IIT-Dharwad Professor Prasanna was also present.

Woman accuses Swamiji

Explaining the turn of events on that night, the woman said that the Swamiji, along with his five followers and her husband, barged into the house and assaulted her. "I was badly beaten up by the Swamiji and he assaulted me all over the body including my private parts. He abused me in filthy language for refusing to meet him at the temple," she narrated.

The woman further said that the Swamiji then took her to the bedroom and sexually harassed her. "The Swamiji told me that he has many spiritual powers and he repeatedly assaulted me," she said. The Swamiji also set her clothes on fire and behaved in an inhuman way, she said. "He even attempted to kill me," she has stated in her complaint.

Later, the woman narrated that the Swamiji forcibly took her away from her house and made to sit in a big vehicle (KA-51-MF-256) and was taken to her husband's brother's place in Kuvempunagar.

"The Swamiji forced me to sit on his lap inside the vehicle and threatened me that he would kill me if I did not come to meet him in three days," she has stated in the complaint.

Based on the complaint, the Kuvempunagar Police have registered cases under IPC 1860 (U/s - 354(A) (sexual harassment), 354(B) (use of criminal force to woman with intent to disrobe),149 (unlawful assembly), 504 (intentional insult with intent to provoke breach of peace), 448 (house trespass), 506 (criminal intimidation), 307 (attempt to murder), 363 (kidnapping), 354 (making sexual remarks) and 323 (voluntarily causing hurt).

Speaking to Star of Mysore about the case, City Police Commissioner Dr. A Subramanyeswara Rao said that the Kuvempunagar Police will investigate the case impartially and without bowing to any pressure. "It was at my instance that the FIR was registered and we will take the case to its logical end," he said.

Ban order around Exam Centre

Forest personnel sensitised on plight of mahouts

Mysuru, Sept. 8 (MTY&BCT)-A two-day workshop was organised in city recently to build a rapport between mahouts and Forest Department personnel. More than 40 mahouts from across the State participated in the workshop that sensitised the officials regarding the plight of mahouts. The event was also a platform for mahouts to air their grievances.

The workshop was organised by Asian Elephant Support, Karnataka Forest Department and De Paul First Grade College, Mysuru, at KSTDC Hotel auditorium. This is for the first time such a workshop is organised in Mysuru and mahouts from nine elephant camps including Balle, Mathigodu, Dubare and Sakrebailu attended and exchanged their views.

Principal Chief Conservator of Forests (Wildlife) C. Jayaram inaugurated the workshop and said that Karnataka has been in the forefront of elephant conservation and the State has been guiding other States in the matter of conservation, training and nurturing elephant population.

Karnataka has the highest number of elephant population and mahouts, kavadis and elephants are popular for capturing and taming wild elephants.

"Our elephants are much sought after by States including Maharashtra, Madhya Pradesh and Chhattisgarh where there is a considerable wild elephant population that harm human settlements," he said.

Lauding mahouts, kavadis and Department veterinarians for their work outside Karnataka, Jayaram said that the State government has worked out various policies for the welfare of the mahouts and kavadis. Listening to the woes aired by mahouts and kavadis, the officer directed his subordinates to resolve some of the issues that could be solved immediately.

Additional Principal Chief Conservator of Forests Ajay Mishra called upon mahouts and kavadis to give up vices like drinking and smoking. Elephants are sensitive in nature and they have to be looked after like children. "Along with safeguarding the elephants, the mahouts and kavadis must take care of their families. They have the responsibility of keeping the elephants fit and engaged so that whenever there is an emergency work, the elephants must be ready to take on the job," he said. Elephant expert Dr. Ajay Desai outlined the finer aspects of elephant behaviour, its food needs and nutrition. Elephants are more intelligent than human beings and special care has to be taken at elephant camps, he said.

The workshop also dealt with programmes that implement regular health checks and treatments for elephants in remote camps, meeting medical, nutritional, housing and social needs of old elephants and seeking solutions to local issues of human-elephant conflict where both human and elephants benefit from sustainable practices.

Managing Director of Karnataka State Tourism Development Corporation Kumar Pushkar, mahout from America Heidi Ridel, mahout from Indonesia Nazaruddin Wan, mahout Vasantha of Dasara elephant Abhimanyu who had been to Indonesia on a mahout-exchange programme and De Paul First Grade College lecturer and workshop coordinator Dr. Mamatha Sathyanarayana exchanged their views in special lecturers on elephant care.

Additional Principal Chief Conservator of Forests Jagatram, Deputy Conservator of Forests Mysuru Division (wildlife) Sidramappa Chalkapure, Member Secretary of Zoo Authority of Karnataka B.P. Ravi, Chief Conservator of Forests, Mysuru Division Venkatesan, Nagarahole National Park and Tiger Reserve Director D. Ravishankar and others were present.

Dog goes wild, on biting-spree in Ramakrishnanagar

Small child, many others injured in attack

Mysuru, Sept.8 (SBD&NNN)-A dog that went wild attacked a child and many others injuring them, in Ramakrishnagar on Thursday.

The dog attacked and bit the four-year-old grandchild of Nataraju, a resident of Ramakrishnanagar H Block, playing in front of the house. Later, the same dog has bitten another resident of E&F Block. The residents on seeing the dog attacking started chasing it and warning others.

They have chased the dog from 4 pm to 8 pm on Thursday evening. When they pointed the rod to the dog, instead of getting scared it bit it. Everyone in Ramakrishnanagar H Block and E&F block are very scared. They even called the Mysuru City Corporation Control Room and District Control Room and informed them, apart from informing the Police, but to no avail as none of them turned up, said the residents angrily.

The Corporation Control room directs us to an NGO but when we tried to contact them no one picks up the call. If the civic body is so irresponsible, how can we live in peace, asked the irate residents. It looks like the dog which attacked is a pet dog. It must be suffering from some disease and hence the owners must have left it on the street. So, it must be attacking all strangers, the residents added.

There are nearly 20 stray dogs in Ramakrishnanagar. They frequently attack the children. As a result we are scared to send them out for playing. In spite of repeated complaints to the MCC they have not take any action.

The excuse they give is that they are not allowed to legally catch stray dogs. It is not right to kill the animals. However, when they attack human beings then some steps need to be taken. But the Corporation is silent on this issue, they regretted.

KR Hospital says no injection

The Association of Prevention and Control of Rabies in the country has made a vow to make the country rabies-free by 2030. Steps have been taken in this direction to see that there is no shortage of Anti Rabies Vaccine (ARV). However, it is said that K.R. Hospital in the city has sent back the patients claiming that there is no rabies vaccine.

The grandfather of the child who was bitten by the dog has expressed his pain saying that when he took the child to the hospital, the authorities there said that there was no injection available. Hence, he was forced to take the child to a private hospital. If this is the situation in the Doddaspatre (as K.R. Hospital is popularly called) imagine the plight of the poor, he wondered.

However, when Star of Mysore spoke to K.R. Hospital Resident Medical Officer Dr. Rajesh, he categorically stated that there is no shortage of anti-rabies vaccine. One bottle of injection will last for six persons. Once the bottle is opened it cannot be used for long.

The Hospital closes at 6 pm. Hence, if they find the room closed, most people do not bother to find out and go back. The vaccine can be taken within 24 hours of dog bite. The BPL card holders here get free vaccine and others have to pay just Rs.100 for the injection, he said.

Gangothri Hostel boys stage snap stir

Mysuru, Sept.8- Listing out various problems they were facing, nearly 250 students of the Old Boys Students Hostel in Manasagangothri, staged a snap stir here this morning, first in front of the hostel and later at the South Gate entrance of Gangothri near Kuvempu statue.

Alleging that the facilities in the hostel were pathetic, the students said that drinking water unit was not working and since the water was contaminated, the students were falling ill frequently. Mosquito menace had increased and there were also bed bugs. The buckets and taps in the washrooms had broken besides lot of grime and algae collected which made the students slip while taking bath. The list of litanies continue with students demanding proper hangers to dry clothes and repair of western toilets which are not in working condition. They charged that the solar panels to heat water are not working. Weeds have grown near the clothes washing area and as a result there is fear of scorpions and snakes lurking around apart from other creatures.

The hostel room walls have not seen paint for a long time and it is very difficult to study in such a dull and drab atmosphere, they said. The whole hostel premises were quite unclean as proper cleaning materials like phenyl, broom sticks were not being used properly. Even though there was a gym facility, it was kept under lock and key most of the days and they wanted it to be kept open every day so that they could make use of the facility.

They also urged that every month the Dean of Students Welfare and other officers must hold meeting with the students and try to solve the problems on a regular basis.

As the protesters had moved to the South Gate entrance, those coming to the campus had a tough time, as they were being prevented by the students from entering.

Student leaders Suresh, Basavanna, Mohit, Rajesh, Govinda and others participated in the protest.

Pourakarmikas stir enters fifth day: Even as the strike by the women Pourakarmikas of University of Mysore entered the fifth day, they had a strong support with former Mayor and former Safai Karmachari Chairman Narayan visiting the spot at the South Gate entrance of Manasagangothri.

He said that women employees were being discriminated as they were being paid less than men. He also demanded the intervention of Higher Education Minister G.T. Devegowda to resolve the issue as the University authorities had turned a blind eye to the problems of the Pourakarmikas. He threatened that the strike would be intensified if their demands were not met. Pourakarmika leader Mara and others were also present.

Workshop on 'Legal issues'

Mysuru, Sept.8 (US)- A workshop on 'Role of stakeholders in effective delivery of justice' has been organised tomorrow (Sept.9) at 9.30 am at the office of Police Commissioner here, under the joint aegis of the District Judiciary, District Legal Services Authority, District Administration, City and District Police, Department of Health and Family Welfare, Mysore Medical College and Research Institute, Department of Mines and Geology and Department of Forensic Science.

Lectures and interaction will be held on POCSO Act, Cyber Crime, Forensic Science and other legal issues.

IGP (Southern Range) K.V. Sharatchandra will inaugurate the programme. Principal District and Sessions Judge S.K. Vontigodi, DC Abhiram G. Sankar, City Police Commissioner Dr. A.S. Rao, SP Amit Singh and others will participate.

US Open: History at stake

as Serena Williams, Osaka meet in final

Serena Williams

Naomi Osaka

New York, Sept.8- Serena Williams vies for a record-equalling 24th major title at the US Open on Saturday, with Naomi Osaka out to deny her idol and become Japan's first Grand Slam champion.

One of the two will make history on Sept.9 at 1.30 am (IST) on Arthur Ashe Stadium court, where Williams won the first of her six US Open titles at the age of 17.

Osaka was not yet two at the time, and the 20-year-old admits it's "surreal" to think she'll be taking on the woman who inspired her tennis career in her very first Grand Slam final.

The youngest woman to reach a US Open final since 2009, Osaka displayed poise and mental fortitude in saving all 13 break points she faced in a semi-final victory over American Madison Keys.

Novak Djokovic sets up final clash with Juan Martin del Potro

New York, Sept.8- Novak Djokovic set up a US Open 2018 final clash against Juan Martin del Potro after reached his eighth final at the tournament and 23rd of his Grand Slam career with a 6-3, 6-4, 6-2 stroll past Japan's Kei Nishikori. Del Potro reached the final after defending champion and world number one Rafael Nadal quit his last-four clash against the giant Argentine with a knee injury.

Djokovic, the 2011 and 2015 winner, boasts a 14-4 lead over Del Potro in a 10-year rivalry, including two wins without dropping a set at the US Open in 2007 and 2012.

Cricket legend Brett Lee in city

Cricket legend Brett Lee during an interaction with the students at AIISH premises in city yesterday along with Dr. Asha Yathiraj and Dr.Sujeet Kumar Sinha.

Mysuru, Sept.8- According to the 2011 Census, more than 2.35 lakh people in Karnataka suffer from profound hearing impairment. Cricket legend Brett Lee, who is the Brand Ambassador for Cochlear, a Australian base company, was in city on Friday to raise awareness about Universal New-born Hearing Screening (UNHS). ENT Surgeon Dr. H.A. Dathathri also joined him to talk about hearing issues and the need for early screening and intervention for children with profound hearing loss.

Speaking at a media briefing, Brett Lee said: "Technology is transforming the experience of deafness. I feel fortunate to be able to use my profile to draw attention to the importance of good hearing and the consequences of hearing loss in India. I strongly believe that everybody deserves to hear the sounds of life and that no one in this world deserves to live in silence."

"Parents and family members should not ignore the smallest signs of hearing loss and should take speedy action. I have personally witnessed how an implant takes a person from silence to sound. It is a life changing moment," he said.

Speaking at the briefing, Dr. Dathathri (Consultant- ENT, Head and Neck Surgery, Columbia Asia Hospital, Mysuru) said, "Our country lacks public awareness about hearing loss, its causes, signs and how and when to seek necessary treatment. With technological advancement, hearing loss can now be detected at birth itself. There was a time when children with hearing loss had to learn and master sign language and adjust to a life without sound. But that does not hold true anymore. The newborn screening programme is a first of its kind and an important support for children who are deaf and hard of hearing. An infant's first hearing screening is recommended typically within the first month of life and a child as young as 12 months of age can receive cochlear implants that can potentially restore hearing."

Cricketer interacts with AIISH students

How do you feel when you see hearing impaired children? Can these children participate in sports? Can cricket be played in silence? Why have you involved yourself in creating awareness about this problem?" These were the searching questions posed by the students of All India Institute of Speech and Hearing (AIISH) to Brett Lee at an interaction held at the Knowledge Park auditorium at its premises here yesterday.

Speaking on the occasion, Brett Lee said that just as lot of importance is given to Polio in this country, the same importance must be given to infants with hearing impairment. If the problem is diagnosed at a young age then it can be addressed easily. Lauding the efforts of Kerala, a first in the country to screen children for hearing loss in 66 government maternity centres, he wonder such tests were not being conducted in Mysuru and Mumbai. Lee's son was five when he had a fall and fractured part of his skull. The injury was close to his ear and led to hearing loss in one of the ears which was later restored. This incident made him realise that no one deserves to live in silence.

Maharana Pratap Jayanti tomorrow

Mysuru, Sept.8 (PM&DM)- Maharana Pratap Singh Jayanti will be celebrated in city on Sept.9 under the aegis of Maharana Pratap Singh Rajput Kshatriya Samaj. Announcing this at a press meet here on Thursday, Samaj Hon. President Dr. B. Gopal Singh said that the Jayanti celebrations will take place at Rajgopal Rashinkar Kalyana Mantap next to the Air Force Training Centre on Bannur Road.

Former Mayor H.N. Srikantaiah will inaugurate the Jayanti at 12 noon. Samaj President Sathyanarayan Singh will preside.

'Chetak' channel Editor B. Nagarathan Singh will felicitate ex-servicemen and meritorious children of the community, he said. Prior to the programme, a rally will be taken out at 10 am, he added.

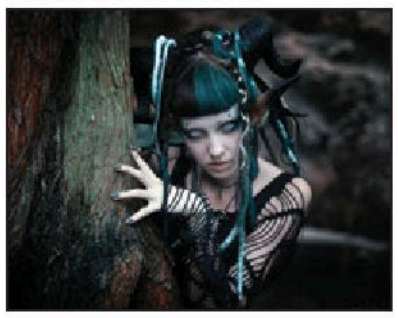
WORD OF THE DAY

Banshee

Pronunciation: BAN-shee



Meaning: A female spirit in Gaelic folklore whose appearance or wailing warns a family that one of them will soon die.

Origin: In Irish folklore, a bean sídhe literally "woman of fairyland" was not a welcome guest. When she was seen combing her hair or heard wailing beneath a window, it was considered a sign that a family member was about to die. English speakers modified the mournful fairy's Irish name into the modern word banshee—a term we now most often use to evoke her woeful or terrible or ear-splitting cry, as in "to scream like a banshee," or attributively, as in "a banshee wail."

Example: When making an appearance as the washer woman, the banshee is commonly spotted washing blood from the clothes of the person who is destined to die.

THE ODD WORD

Wittol

A man who knows of and tolerates his wife's infidelity.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

A fly in the ointment

Meaning: A small but irritating flaw that spoils the whole.

Origin: These days ointments are chiefly for medicinal use - just the thing for rubbing on that nasty rash. In earlier times, ointments were more likely to be creams or oils with a cosmetic or ceremonial use. Literally, ointment was the substance one was anointed with. There is considerable anointing in Bible stories and it isn't surprising therefore that this phrase has a biblical origin. Ecclesiastes 10:1 (King James Version) has: "Dead flies cause the ointment of the apothecary to send forth a stinking savour: so doth a little folly him that is in reputation for wisdom and honour."The phrase 'the fly in the ointment' didn't appear until later. The earliest example can be found in print of that precise wording is in John Norris' A Practical Treatise Concerning Humility, 1707: 'Tis that dead fly in the ointment of the Apothecary.'

Example: We enjoyed the play, but the fly in the ointment was not being able to find my hat afterward.

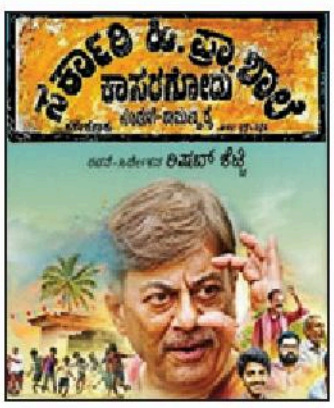
EDITOR'S CHOICE



"Sarkari Hi. Pra. Shaale, Kasaragodu, Koduge: Ramanna Rai (Govt. Higher Primary School, Kasaragod, Donated by: Ramanna Rai)" is a fictional film which takes us back on a nostalgic journey to our childhood days, school life and stages of adolescences where we had our first crush and all other first time life experiences. Altogether it is a fun filled take on the system, society and people in the perspective of children.
